Our "Nu-Barrier" is an extended wear barrier that has a strong tack, excellent adhesion, for urine drainage and watery fecal output.

The barrier is known to swell or turtleneck around the stoma, which can add additional skin protection.

This barrier performs better on intact skin.

Note: When the barrier swells it might cover flush stomas, but the output should not be obstructed from flowing.

NOTES

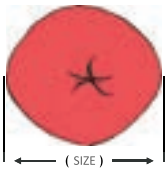
HOW TO KNOW YOUR STOMA SIZE

Accurate sizing will help to determine the correct pouch style and help you achieve maximum wear time and skin protection.

STOMA SIZE IS DETERMINED BY THE ACTUAL MEASUREMENT OF YOUR STOMA AT THE SKIN

NOTE: THERE IS NO NEED TO USE SKIN PREPARATION IF WEARING NU-HOPE PRODUCTS

ROUND STOMA

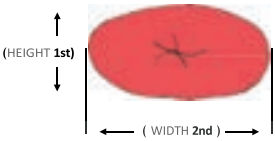


USE ROUND MEASURING GUIDE

Stomas can be round or near round. Give the actual size in inches - 1/8" increments.

Example: 5/8", ¾", 7/8", 1 1/8" etc.

OVALSTOMA



USE OVAL MEASURING GUIDE

Stomas can heal oval in shape. Give the actual size in inches - 1/8" increments.

Example: ¾" height by 1 3/8" width

How to determine if you need a Flat or Convex pouch

Most stomas are ideally situated on a round or slightly round tummy surface, generally a flat pouch will be sufficient.

For stomas in a crease or fold line, pre-bending the pouch adhesive-seal-area/foam pad helps the pouch to support into the skin folds/creases to minimize leakage. Convex pouches can also be bent in the same manner.

For stomas flush to the skin or stomas located in a recess hollow area, use of a pouch with convexity is usually indicated.

Convex

Deep Convex

Convex (-C)

Deep Convex (-DC)

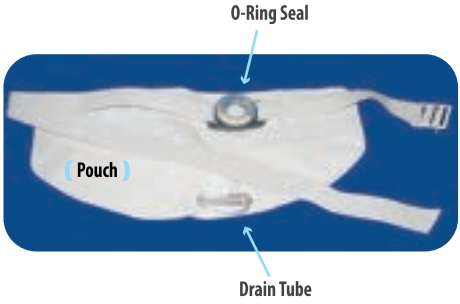
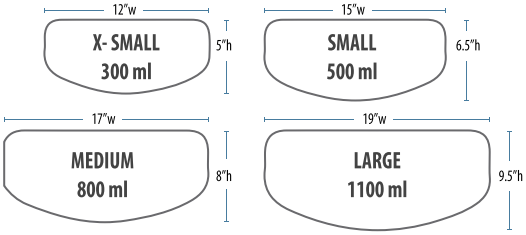
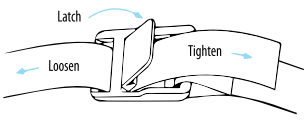
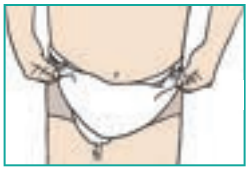
UROSTOMY SYSTEMS



AVAILABLE POUCH SIZES







Urostomy Appliance Systems

The system consists of a pouch, belt, o-ring seal, and an overlapping coupling included for night drain connection. Combined, these elements provide an effective seal and urine collection system that works equally well with retracted, flush, or protruding stomas.

Without adhesives, a seal is formed by the belt exerting pressure on the o-ring placed against the skin surrounding the stoma. Application and removal of the appliance is simple and convenient. Intended for single patient use only.

Colostomy Appliance Systems

The open-end system consists of a pouch, belt, o-ring seal, and a scissor action drain tail closure. The closed-end system consists of a pouch, belt, and o-ring seal. Combined, these elements provide an effective seal and fecal collection system that works equally well with retracted, flush, or protruding stomas.

Without adhesives, a seal is formed by the belt exerting pressure on the o-ring placed against the skin surrounding the stoma. Application and removal of the appliance is simple and convenient. Intended for single patient use only.

Complete instructions for use and cleaning are included with each set.

Important:
This product is designed for use on intact abdominal structures and skin.

Silicone O-Rings

HCPCS: A4384

The pliable Silicone O-Ring, when tensioned properly by the belt, creates a secure seal between the pouch and abdomen.

*When added compression is needed to maintain a seal with a softer abdomen or skin roll situations, the Extra Tall ring may afford a more secure seal around the stoma.

Who We Are

Since 1959, Nu-Hope Laboratories have provided personalized customer service to ostomates, their nurses, doctors, caregivers and families. Our ostomy products are thoughtfully designed and manufactured in the USA. We help WOC nurses, doctors and caregivers to find the perfect solution for all patients, no matter how difficult the stoma or hernia. Our product range includes support belts, ostomy pouches and accessories including custom solutions for support belt and pouches.

Our brief history

In 1959, Nu-Hope Laboratories was founded by Edmund Galindo after he created his own ostomy devices that allowed him to get back to work and back on the golf course. Edmund's wife Hope was the inspiration for the company name, and the feeling that what the company did was bring hope to those who needed it most. Today, the family legacy lives on, and the Galindo family continues to help ostomates and their families live better, happier and healthier lives.
